THE RECTOR'S LETTER

Giving thanks for those who have gone before us – the month of remembrance.

Dear Friends,

The feasts of All Saints and All Souls begin the month of November which sees us move into different season in the Church calendar. These Holy days are both a reminder of those who have gone before us, the saints, those extraordinary women and men who in a myriad of ways point others towards God, as well as the faithful departed, our own loved ones whom we have commended to God's care. All Saints Day is often a joyful celebration as we think about, not just our favourite saints like St Peter, St Paul or St George, but also those who have gone before us who have been part of the church. It's a reminder that they, and we are all part of God's wonderful family.

Although this year we are celebrating All Saints and All Souls on the same day, the mood changes for All Soul's. Reflecting on our loved ones who have died is always poignant, and it doesn't matter how long ago they died, our losses are always with us. All Souls Day is another opportunity to share our grief with God and look for comfort, hope and peace. And that comfort and hope and come from the gospel reading for All Saints in which we hear Jesus speak his blessings known as the Beatitudes. And one of them is 'Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted.' Jesus' words tell us that God blesses those whom the world often dismisses. For those who have lost loved ones there comes a time when others often struggle to know how to speak or to be alongside them.

In recent years I have been especially drawn to the Lutheran pastor Nadia Bolz-Weber modern version of the Beatitudes, she writes –

'Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted. Blessed are they for whom death is not an abstraction. Blessed are they who have buried their loved ones, for whom tears are as real as an ocean. Blessed are they who have loved enough to know what loss feels like.....Blessed are they who can't fall apart because they have to keep it together for everyone else..... Blessed are those who "still aren't over it yet" Blessed are they who laughed again when for so long they thought they never would. Blessed are those who mourn. You are of heaven and Jesus blesses you.'

In this sacred season of remembering, we thank God for the vast family of saints and the quiet, unsung servants of our church, especially those who have never looked for recognition. And as we remember the loved ones we have lost, we rest in the peaceful assurance that God walks intimately with us through our sorrow. My prayer for us during this month is that, even when our losses remain painful, we might look around and find the grace to still be thankful. Thankful for all who have gone before us, for those we have known and loved, and for the many who we haven't. Thankful that in so many different ways our lives have been touched by theirs.

With every blessing

Canon Paul

Prayer for the month

Stir up, O Lord,
the wills of your faithful people;
that they, plenteously bringing forth the fruit of good works,
may by you be plenteously rewarded;
through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

For those of us who have grown up in the Church of England, the collect I have chosen for the prayer of the month was used as a reminder to people to make sure they had made their Christmas puddings. The Book of Common Prayer uses this collect on the Sunday before Advent, as such the association with making Christmas Puddings, which need to be made some weeks in advance of Christmas day, stuck. When Common Worship was published the Church of England adopted the same practice as the Roman Catholic Church and celebrated the Sunday before Advent as the Feast of Christ the King. Such was the popularity of this prayer though that it was retained as the Post Communion prayer. But what does it mean? This prayer has always been used to prepare for the season of Advent. It is a prayer that asks God to motivate us in such a way that we might always be looking to do good as we prepare our hearts for the coming of Jesus. As we look toward Advent this month, and prepare ourselves spiritually for Christmas and beyond, I commend it to you for your own prayers.

Advent Carol Service
Sunday 29th November 6pm

We will, as usual, mark the start of Advent with a service of readings and music led by our choir. It will be on Advent Sunday, 29th November at 6pm, and refreshments will be served afterwards. It is always a very beautiful occasion; do come and join us.

A Service of Comfort and Hope at Christmas
Tuesday 22nd December 5.30pm

For many people Christmas is not a time of cheer: it can be a season marked by grief, loneliness, or mental health struggles. That's why this year I will be introducing a service of Comfort and Hope, to acknowledge those feelings and offer support to those who might be struggling. The real meaning of Christmas is one of joy, but reflecting on the joy that the coming of Christ brings doesn't mean ignoring more difficult emotions and experiences. Part of reflecting on the joy of Christmas is embracing the reality of the sadness and pain that we might be experiencing.

On Tuesday 22nd December at 5.30pm there will be a short service that will include carols, prayers, readings, and an opportunity to light candles and reflect on the hope of Christmas.

My prayer is that for those who find celebrating Christmas difficult, it will be a time of comfort.

Christmas Door Wreath Workshop
Saturday 28th November 9.30am – 12noon

In what has become a very popular St Paul's tradition, the flower team is organising a Christmas Wreath making workshop on the morning of Saturday 28th November, in the Parish Centre, 9.30-12noon. The cost is £25 each which includes everything you will need to create a truly beautiful door wreath. If you have a pair of secateurs, please do bring them along with you as we don't have many spare pairs. Places are limited, so if you would like to come along please let the office know to reserve a space and either pay beforehand or on the day.

Afternoon Tea

For many years Margaret Phillips and Phyllis Nicholls have been organising and catering for a lovely afternoon tea on the 1st Sunday of each month. This has always been followed by Evening Prayer from the Book of Common Prayer. The teas have been attended by a small but faithful following who have enjoyed fellowship as well as wonderful food.

Unfortunately, Margaret and Phyllis feel that they can no longer continue. They deserve a huge THANK YOU. We are so grateful for their commitment, and their wonderful food!

In its place I would like to use this slot, every other month, to invite newcomers to St Paul's to come and meet other members of the Church and to have a chance to discover more about what we do, and the opportunities there are to be involved in the life of St Paul's. It is hoped to start this in February and so we need volunteers to provide cake and serve tea.

If you are interested in helping, including baking a cake, do please let me know.

Canon Paul.

Walsingham Children's Pilgrimage 26th – 28th February 2027

Could YOU give the gift of pilgrimage to a young person from our parish?

In February, we will be taking some of our Junior Church and JAM Club to the Children's Pilgrimage in Walsingham.

We are blessed to have around 10 children who would like to go...

The cost is around £150 per child, which includes the whole weekend of activities, food, accommodation and travel.
As you can imagine, this is a lot for families to find, especially if they have more than one child who would like to join us.
In previous years, the Diocese have covered the travel costs for us...this year this isn't guaranteed
Could you be a "Godparent" and help to enable us to take everyone that would like to go?

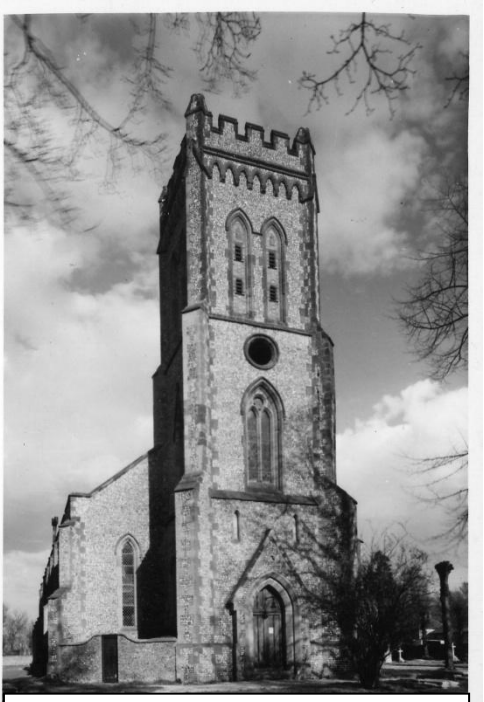

If you feel you could help towards the cost of this pilgrimage, we would invite you to talk to Fr. Paul or Zena Matthews, either in person, by email to frpaulmatthews@gmail.com or by phone to Zena on 07749419475

TOWER AND TEMPLE FALL TO DUST . . . *

ALAN H J GREEN

Those approaching St Paul's for the first time will probably be rather puzzled by the appearance of the west end of the building. It has a seemingly out of scale porch above which a vast, ugly expanse of render stretches up to the gable end, suggesting something drastic has happened in the past. It has.

Originally there was a lofty three-stage tower, 80 feet (24.4m) high whose base housed the main entrance to the church, and this ensemble was undoubtedly the best feature of the building and a notable feature of the city's skyline

As the architect intended: the west end of St Paul's with its three-stage tower.

Problems with the tower began to manifest themselves in March 1883 with the fall of some flintwork from the south wall and the failure of the south-east buttress. A detailed architect's survey was carried out and the estimate for repairs came to £210 - somewhat more than the vicar was expecting. The architect produced a detailed handwritten specification which ran to 10 pages and began with the following indictment of the original builder:

I have been sorry to find upon inspection that the material of the original construction is not so efficient as I should have expected in a building of modern construction & erected under good auspices.

The following April an appeal was launched by the vicar to raise the required sum and work commenced in August 1884. Inevitably, once work started more problems came to light which had to be addressed as extras. The total cost of the works came to £269 12s 7d and, as the subscriptions had only raised £245 11s 4d, the deficit had to be made up by a loan of £20 from the vicar and donations of £4 1s 3d from various friends of his. The tower had been stabilised, and at great cost, but it would prove to have been but a sticking plaster job.

When the Archdeacon of Chichester made his visitation on 29 June 1948, he noted that the tower was in a dangerous state with the four walls falling apart at the top and opined that the top part would have to be taken down,

Local architect Stanley Roth's advice was duly sought which confirmed everybody's worst fears, so in the August parish magazine the vicar announced an appeal for funds to retrieve the situation:

The tower is unsafe, I may as well tell the truth bluntly. It is not the first time this somewhat jerry-built structure has caused anxiety and cost money… the only practicable solution is to take down the upper third altogether. The skyline in north Chichester will seem empty without it.

Roth produced a scheme for removing the upper (third) stage completely and building a short stub spire at the top of the second stage for which a faculty was duly granted. Tenders were sought in October 1949 with a citywide appeal for £1000 being launched. Unfortunately slow ingress of donations meant that work could not start until June 1950, and when it did some nasty surprises were revealed. Once the top stage had been removed it was found that the top of the second stage was equally unstable and incapable of supporting the proposed stub spire and parapet. Roth then advised abandoning the original scheme and demolishing the second stage of the tower as well, leaving just the first stage, capped with a reinforced concrete roof, as an entrance porch. This scheme was approved by the PCC on 4 August 1950.

The work was completed in October 1950 and the vicar wrote in the magazine

…its odd appearance will take some getting used to, but in time I don't think we shall dislike it.

In that he was wrong; although the number of Cicestrians who remember the tower is fast shrinking, the appearance of the west end of the church still reads as architecturally 'odd'

When in 1986 planning started for building the parish centre next to the church, initial ideas included reinstating the tower, but this was not to be.

* See hymn 584 Hymns Ancient and Modern

The full history of St Paul's can be read in St Paul's Chichester, The Church, Its Parish and its People by Alan H J Green. It is long out of print but it can be borrowed from the Church Library.

News from St Olav's Christian Bookshop

As we head into what we hope will be a busy Advent and Christmas season in the shop, here are some of the new titles that can make wonderful presents for family, friends, or as a treat for yourself, including Don't forget the Angels, opening a window onto the unseen, but profoundly real, world of the Heavenly Host, and Selling the Word of God, a history of the evolution of the English Bible from 1525 to the King James version we still use today (and don't forget to order your diaries and lectionaries ready for the start of the Church's Year on Advent Sunday -29th November)

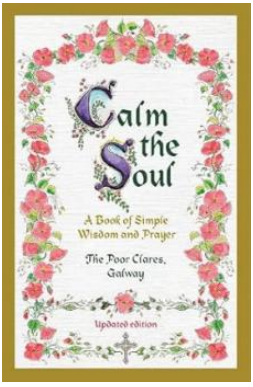

These can all be purchased online: to view our full range, please go to www.stolavchristianbookshop.uk. But of course we would be especially delighted to see you in the bookshop where we also have a wide selection of Christmas cards, as well as Advent candles and calenders.

We're very grateful for your continued support and look forward to serving you soon — whether you visit us in the bookshop or place an order online.

Calm the Soul: The Poor Clares, Galway £9.99

This updated edition of the number one bestselling book includes practical advice on preparing for prayer, reflections on familiar prayers such as the Our Father and the Hail Mary, writings on some of the sisters' favourite saints, and prayers for specific needs such as low-self-esteem, worries about social media, illness and anxiety.

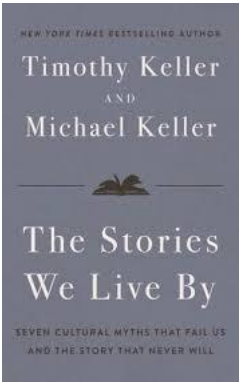

This timeless book of spirituality presents simple ways we can introduce more prayer to our days and, in doing so, live with more peace and happiness.

Selling the Word of God | Harry Spillane | £25.00

This is a history of the English Bible as a book. A book that in order to be read had first to be sold. A fascinating and comprehensive history which gives intriguing and colourful context to the phenomenon of the bestselling book in history. Published on the occasion of the 500th anniversary of Tyndale's ground-breaking printed translation of the New Testament, this book traces the evolution of the English Bible from 1525 to the much celebrated King James version of 1611

The Stories we live by | T& M Keller | £18.99

'Do what makes you happy.' 'Be true to yourself.' 'Live free.' If these slogans promise the good life, why do they so often leave us feeling hollow and empty? Could the very stories our modern world tells us about happiness, freedom, and identity be the source of our growing anxiety and disillusionment?

The culmination of a journey Michael Keller began with his father, beloved pastor and bestselling author Timothy Keller, before his passing, The Stories We Live By unmasks the hidden cultural narratives that shape our lives, often without our knowledge.

Don't forget the angels | Fr Matt Anscombe | £14.99

A short, accessible, 'explainer' which is part-memoir, part-devotional to help Catholics and other Christians flesh out their understanding of who and what angels are, and their role in the world today, as understood by the Roman Catholic Church.

Blending clear teaching with personal reflection, this book opens a window onto an unseen yet profoundly real world, helping readers gain a deeper, more authentic understanding of the essential role angels play in God's plan and in our daily lives.

A Baroque Christmas

Chichester's Baroque ensemble, The Consort of Twelve, and Portsmouth Baroque Choir will present a sequence of music for Advent and Christmas, led by Janis Moore and directed by Malcolm Keeler, on Saturday 5th December, at 6.00pm, in St Paul's Church, Chichester. The ensembles each have a remarkable history that spans more than 40 years. We have collaborated on a number of occasions, and are delighted to be together again, to usher in the festive season with a concert of glorious music that follows the Christmas story in a programme journeying across Baroque Europe.

The journey begins in Germany with Bach's Cantata 61, Nun komm der heiden Heiland (Come, Saviour of the Nations). Bach based the opening chorus on an ancient plainchant melody. In a later movement he creates a very different and delicate texture when the instrumentalists pluck the strings rather than using their bows. This symbolises Jesus gently knocking for admittance to the heart. We continue in Italy with Corelli's famous Christmas Concerto for solo strings and ensemble, and the first half of the concert will conclude with German-born Handel and his Messiah (first performed in Dublin), with extracts that include the angel's appearance to the shepherds.

The interval follows, with mulled wine, mince pies and other festive fare.

Returning to Germany, extracts from Bach's Christmas Oratorio (part 2) continue the pastoral atmosphere. Moving to France, the Oratorio will be followed by a charming one-movement instrumental setting by Charpentier of a traditional French Christmas carol. This will act as a scene setter and will lead directly into Charpentier's settings of a further group of traditional carols in his Messe de Minuit pour Noël. From France we move to Italy and to Manfredini's Concerto Grosso for solo strings and ensemble. Our next port of call is with Danish-born Buxtehude. His delightful dance-like celebration of the new-born child is in the form of exchanges between the ensemble and the singers.

The concert ends with the musicians playing one verse of an exotic arrangement of O come all ye faithful by the English composer Samuel Webbe. We hope that everyone will then join in with a verse in the more usual arrangement.

The concert is on Saturday 5th December at 6pm in St. Paul's Church, Chichester. Tickets: £20.00(adult) £5.00(student) £1.00(child), available

The Chichester Quakers Peace Lecture
Saturday 7th November 6.30pm
at Friends Meeting House, Priory Road, Chichester.

What role does the media play in fermenting conflict and war or can it promote peace?

These are the questions that will be posed at the annual Chichester Quakers Peace Lecture next month. Award-winning editor, journalist and author Michael Gilson is giving the talk and will draw on his experience of editing newspapers and websites for 35 years across the UK. From the World Wars to Vietnam to Ukraine, he will discuss what role newspapers, television and other media platforms play in shaping our perceptions of conflict and also examine the modern media landscape and how it can fuel anger on the streets of Britain.

The event is free but donations to Quaker outreach work are always welcome.
